

HOSTED BY

'Use of voice - to connect and inspire your audience'

Guest Speaker: Lucy Cornell, Director of Voice Coach

Refreshments 5.30 pm, Presentation 6pm-7.30pm, Thursday 27 June, 2013
Ashurst, Level 36, 225 George Street, Sydney

Your voice is your means of establishing your power. Understanding how to use your voice will help you make your mark in your career.

The Women Lawyers' Association of NSW and Ashurst's Sydney Women in Mentoring (SWIM) program invite you to hear from Lucy Cornell about the use of your voice to connect and inspire those you speak to; be it your clients, your Partners or your colleagues. Lucy will explain the relationship between voice and power and how your voice is your means of influencing your audience. During the course of the evening, Lucy will also share with us some sophisticated techniques you can use immediately to assist you to develop vocal presence and power for strong, more effective conversations.

Lucy Cornell, Author, Director and Chief Inspiration Officer of Voice Coach, has been working with leaders and speakers in business and corporations globally for over fifteen years helping them to develop vocal presence. Her clientele range from CEOs; senior executives of blue chip companies such as McKinsey, IBM, Macquarie Bank; politicians; barristers and legal associations; radio and TV presenters.

As one of the few Linklater trained voice teachers in the world, Lucy Cornell has extensive academic and practical experience training with voice tutors from Royal Shakespeare Company (UK) and as an actor and teacher at Shakespeare and Company (USA).

Lucy Cornell is regularly sought as a specialist speaker at International conferences, including for Young President's Organisation (YPO) events globally and for barristers across the Commonwealth heading the performance faculty of the Australian, UK and South African Bar Advanced Advocacy training courses. Lucy Cornell also holds a Masters of Applied Science in Voice Research (USyd), Bachelor of Arts and Education (UNSW) and a Licentiate Diploma from the Trinity College of London.
